S. ADAMS LEE AT FRANKFORT.
He fools Gen. Breckenridge and Fascinates a School Teacher.
From the New York Herald.

This community has been excited for a day or two past by the extraordinary adventures of one S. Adams Lee who claimed to be a nephew of the late General R. E. Lee, exhibiting letters and papers in authentication of the assumed fact. His first appearance here was a fortnight ago, when by plausible address and adroit use of his letters and papers he induced the Legislature to grant him the use of its hall to deliver a lecture on "God in the Ocean." He claimed to have been a naval officer on the Merrimack at the time of its combat with the Monitor, and by a pitiful tale of his misfortunes as a Confederate he induced General John C. Breckenridge, through his regard for the Lee family, to loan him fifty dollars. Similar exactions were made upon the confidence of Colonel J. Stoddard Johnston and other leading ex-Confederates.

ROGUERY IN MILITARY ATTIRE.
S. Adams Lee wore a military attire and sports a cork leg, which, he says, is the fruit of his Confederate service. After his first exploits here information came from the Georgia papers and through private sources that he was a rare impostor, and although a distant relative of the Lee family, yet he had been disowned by them. His fine address and polished manners gained him entrance into the best society, and for a while he was a sort of lion. Particularly was this true of his acquaintanceship among the ladies.

ENTICES A SCHOOL TEACHER TO ELOPE WITH HIM.
Ingratiating himself into the confidence of the Principal of a female academy at New Castle, Ky.; he made the acquaintance and won the affections of one of the teachers, an intelligent and attractive young lady from a Northern State. Her mother sought to prevent her marriage and took her home, but she returned alone to Eminence, where she joined Lee, and both came to this city yesterday to consummate the baneful, taking rooms at the Merriweather House.

NEATLY TRAPPED BY HIS VICTIMS.
Fortunately an acquaintance of the young lady discovered their presence, and, having seen the published accounts of Lee's rascality elsewhere, he took steps to prevent the consummation of the intended marriage. Communicating with Colonel Stoddard Johnston, the latter, with John C. Breckenridge, Col. George Jossee, Col. Taylor, the County Attorney, John Julian and others, formed themselves into a committee and proceeded to the Merriweather House, where they confronted Lee with the proof of his deceptions. He admitted the charge, but said he suffered so much from the use of opium (a tin box of which he displayed to his interviewers) that he hoped they would excuse him.

KICKED OUT BY THE CROWD—KISSED BY THE WOMAN.
By this time quite a crowd had collected, and threats of violence were muttered. As he was a cripple, and upon his agreeing to leave the county, he was conducted to the Louisville train and allowed to depart. The lady expressed much surprise at the proofs of his villainy, but kissed him ere he went. She remained in the city last night and at times expressed doubts of the numerous charges made against Lee; and the general belief is that they will finally marry. She will be conducted to her relatives by friends.

Lee left with great indignation against those whom he declared his persecutors; but it is to be hoped the publicity of his present adventures will prevent other communities from being victimized by so adroit a villain.

BORROWING TROUBLE.—Such a habit of mind and heart is wrong, because it puts one in a dependency that will be his ruin. I planted two rose bushes in my garden; the one thrived beautifully, the other perished. I found the dead one on the shady side of the house. Our dispositions, like our plants, need sunshine. Expectancy of reprieve is the cause of many secular and religious failures. Fear of bankruptcy has upon many a fine business, and sent the man dodging among the note-shavers. Fear of slander and abuse has often invited all the long-banked virtues of backbiting. Many of the misfortunes of life, like byenas, flee if you courageously meet them. How poorly prepared for religious duty is a man who sits down under the gloom of an expected misfortune! If he prays, he says, "I do not think I shall be answered." If he gives, he says, "I expect they will steal the money."

Helen Chalmers told me that her father, Thomas Chalmers in the darkest hour of the history of the Free Church of Scotland, and when the woes of the land seemed to weigh upon his heart, said to his children, "Come, let us go out and play ball or fly kite," and the only difficulty in the play was that the children could not keep up with their father. The McChalmers and the Sumnerfields of the church, who did the most good, cultivated sunlight. Away with the horrors! They distill poison; they dig graves; and if they could climb so high, they would drown the rejoicing of heaven with wailing and sobs.

PUGH TOM WOODWARD.
HIS SAD STORY AS TOLD BY A MEMBER OF THE VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.
To the Editor of the New York Sun:

I have been very much pained by reading an account in your paper of the death of Thomas U. Woodward. The young man was well known to me. We both started in life together. We entered the old field schoolhouse side by side, and went from the schoolhouse to the county printing office in Suffolk, Va.—the "Christian Sun." We remained together in this office about two years, when we parted for fields unknown to each other. Several years after our separation—I think it was in 1856—I chanced to be in New York, having shipped on a coasting vessel in Norfolk, Va., bound to that city. There I met Woodward again, just as your correspondent described him, the gay silk neck tie, the patent leather boots, and broadcloth coat. He was then on the New York "Tribune."

Tom was raised well. He received good and religious training in his youth. His father was a man noted for his piety, a Methodist preacher by profession, though he died when Tom was a small lad. The example he set was plainly visible in the boy until he found his way to New York city. There his feet wandered from the path his pious parents taught him to tread. Tom's mother is still living, though she is very old. I think she has passed the eightieth year of her age. I chanced to be in Suffolk, Va., when the sad news reached her that her boy was dead. He had been dead to her for years, for she had never seen nor heard from him in four years. When the paper came with the account of her son's sufferings in his last days, it was more than she could stand. She wept as Rachel did in Ramah for her children, and would not be comforted. Many prayers did she utter in behalf of those who had been kind to him in his dying moments, and especially for the kind reporter of the Sun.

Thomas U. Woodward had many friends in Virginia. His brother, who is a wholesale merchant in Portsmouth, was in New York last fall, and used every effort to find him. He searched for him over the city, and succeeded for him through the press of the city, but all to no purpose. He could not be found. If he had only intimated his condition, he would have been cared for by his brother and every want supplied.

I merely write this in defence of the family, to show to the people of New York that his mother and friends did not know his whereabouts. Respectfully, &c.
C. W. LASSITER,
House of Delegates, Richmond, Va.

DEEDS OF VIOLENCE.—These seem to be constantly multiplying all over the land. An unusual number of homicides have stained the records of the old year, and especially its closing and festive hours. This is owing to two things, mainly. First the intemperate indulgence in strong drink; and second, the pernicious habit of wearing concealed weapons. We are glad to observe that the press is speaking out on this subject at last. We have referred to the matter heretofore, and urged the passage of penal enactments against wearing concealed weapons. Nothing but this will ever correct the evil. If any one has reason to apprehend personal assault, let him wear his arms openly. But the practice of wearing upon one's person concealed deadly weapons, on ordinary occasions, to be used perhaps upon slight and trivial provocation, under a sudden paroxysm of passion, with results that may forever mar our own happiness, send a soul hurriedly to its dread account, and clothe households in mourning, is as unjustifiable as it is cowardly. We trust the press will speak out on this subject until our Legislature shall apply the proper remedy in stern penal laws.

"IN FOUR DAYS YOU DIE."—A young gentleman of this city was to start for a little town near Cincinnati, last Tuesday, for the purpose of returning home with his sister, who is unwell at that place. Monday night that gentleman had a horrid dream, in which he saw a figure clothed in white approach him, and pointing a long bony finger, say in sepulchral tones, "In four days you die." The dreamer thought if he was to die he would rather do so at home than abroad, and therefore he postponed his trip. One, two, three and four days passed, and yet he remained distressingly healthy, didn't even lose his appetite. On the evening of the fourth day, becoming disgusted at the want of truth in the figure in white, he left the city for Cincinnati. This will explain to his many friends why his departure for a sick sister was delayed for seemingly no good reason.—Indianapolis Jour.

A SAD ACCIDENT IN DAVIE COUNTY.
A little girl about two and a half years of age, daughter of D. O. Motin, formerly of Stanly county, was so badly burned from its clothing taking fire on Wednesday morning the 7th instant, that it died that night about 12 o'clock. The mother was absent at a neighbor's house. Three children, one an infant, were left alone, and it is supposed they were playing in the fire. A sad warning to parents.—Carolina Watchman.

From the New York Commercial, 21 Feb.—Fifteenth Avenue Hotel, February 10.
Those flirting Fifth-avenue fellows!

Everywhere I go the young ladies are furious at the way Brown's boys are conducting themselves this winter. Their chief aim seems to be to get a young lady "on the string" and then trifle with her affections. They always talk, but they never propose. They fuss around three or four months with a young lady and then plead poverty and the I-don't-want-to-take-you-from-your-poor-papa dodge. Now the girls are willing to go. They are willing to live in a garret with a brave, handsome, working fellow, with a heart big enough to fill them with many love. They don't like these timid, calculating fellows. They like a man who will rush headlong wherever love beckons him, knowing that happiness and wealth will surely follow after. The young ladies begin to get mad. They are tired of waiting.

This letter, from a young Fifth-avenue belle, came yesterday, and it tells well the sly tale of love and flirtation:
"FIFTH AVENUE, February 9.—My Dear Eli,—We Fifth-avenue young ladies have got an idea. You know the New York flirting fellows have been going on dreadfully lately. We never know when they are in earnest. They keep us waiting, watching, and fuming, but they never come right square out and propose. They talk sweet enough, but when we get them to the proposing point they dodge off or remain silent.

"Why only Sunday night, Charley Brown, whom I love—really love too much for anything—called, and even he fooled me like the rest. I'll tell you how it was: 'Pa and ma were at church, and sister had gone up to Vassar to school, when Charley—the dear boy—came. Well, we sat on the sofa, where we always do. By and by he took my hand; then he told me he loved me. This made me blush—not because it was anything new, for the fellows all say that.

"Do you love me?" he asked, leaning forward so that I felt his head against mine.
"Yes, Charley, you know I do," I replied, and then—why I waited for Charley to say yes, but he held my hand thoughtfully a little while, and then dodged off by saying 'Well, Lizzie, I'm glad you love me, for I do like to be loved!'
"Oh, the mean fellow! I could cry with rage, but I like him, and I like to have him come here, but I do think it was mean to make me commit myself so, and then he—why, maybe he'll go right off and do the same thing to some other girl to-night."

LIZZIE'S IDEA.
"This is our new idea. All the girls have agreed to it. We call it 'the honorable dodge,' and we are bound to put through every flirting fellow in New York on it. The idea is—but I'll tell you how I practiced it last night and you will understand it better. But you know it is a secret, and of course you are to be trusted.
"Well, last night Fred Palmer called. You know he is an awful flirt. We sat on the same sofa where Charley and I sat before. The gas was low, and pretty quick Fred began to talk 'spoonery.' I pretended to be affected. Then he said, 'What a pretty ring you have, Lizzie.' The old dodge, you know."

"Yes, so-so," I replied.
"Is that your crest engraved on it?" he asked, taking my hand. (Another old dodge you know.) 'It isn't half pretty enough for your hand,' he continued, 'you should have a diamond solitaire. Would you like one?' he asked, looking lovingly into my eyes.

"Yes, I said, if it comes from the right one."
"How would you like one from me, Lizzie?" he asked with a sigh.
"Oh! I should be delighted, if I thought you loved me," and then I looked down on his coat sleeve.

"But, Lizzie, you know I do love you—love you dearly, I—"
"Do you love me enough to speak to father about it?" I asked, interrupting him.
"Yes, dear Lizzie, I will speak to him to-morrow," he said, kissing my hand.
"No, I derick," I remarked, removing my hand from his convulsive clasp. 'I'm glad you are willing, but I'm engaged to Alfred Smith, you know, and I was only seeing how far you would go!'
So keep the idea a secret a little while, my dear Eli, and we girls will fool every fellow in New York. Mum is the word! Yours, LIZZIE.

ALAS! ALAS!
We have tidings from Boston of a clergyman of Massachusetts who, on exchange, preached in a brother's pulpit. Taking up a note which he found when he opened the Bible, he read that Brother A. requested the prayers of the church, that the loss of his wife might be blessed to him, etc. The preacher prayed most fervently. To his amazement and mortification, he found that the note had lain in the pulpit a year, while the bereaved gentleman was on this Sabbath sitting with a new wife in the congregation!

VACCINE VIRUS—HOW IT IS OBTAINED.
At the present time small-pox is prevailing very extensively in the United States, and the attention of the community has been, and is now, largely directed to the subject of vaccination. Such being the case, the source whence a supply of vaccine virus is obtained becomes a matter of general interest. Having been informed that a well known public institution—the venerable New York Dispensary, situated at the corner of Centre and White streets—had undertaken the task of furnishing to the medical profession a supply of vaccine, we made the necessary inquiries, and were told that the virus supplied by the dispensary was obtained directly from the calf, and that it had never passed through the human system. Such a large amount is needed now that a fresh supply has to be frequently taken. For this purpose the physician, in charge attends personally to the matter. The calves are kept in a country place, about thirty miles from the city, and are visited three times a week. In no case is the same animal used twice, a fresh one being vaccinated at each visit. It is difficult to procure a sufficient number of calves at this time of the year, but unusual efforts have been put forth, and success has been the result.

TAKING COLD.
If a cold settles on the outer covering of the lungs it becomes pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs, or lung fever, which in many cases carries the strongest man to his grave within a week. If a cold falls upon the inner covering of the lungs it is pleurisy, with its knife like pains, and its slow, very slow recoveries. If a cold settles in the joints there is rheumatism in its various forms; inflammatory rheumatism, with its agonies of pain, and rheumatism of the heart, which in an instant sometimes snaps the cords of life with no friendly warning. It is of the utmost practical importance, then, in this wintry weather to know not so much how to cure a cold as how to avoid it. Colds always come from one cause, some part or the whole of the body being colder than natural for a time. If a man will keep his feet warm always and never allow himself to be chilled he will never take cold in a lifetime, and this can only be accomplished by due care in warm clothing, and the avoidance of draughts and undue exposure. While multitudes of colds come from cold feet, perhaps the majority arise from persons cooling off too quickly after becoming a little warmer than is natural from exercise, or work, or from confinement to a warm apartment.
Wood's Household Magazine.

THE GRATEFUL MILLINER.—A gentleman from one of the provinces went to a fashionable establishment in Paris, to purchase a bonnet for his wife, which he requested the mistress of the establishment to select for him. The lady selected a very elegant hat, and when the gentleman inquired the price, she answered that it was paid for. The gentleman was much surprised, and desired an explanation.

"Sir," said the lady, "ten years ago you bought some apples of a little girl in the streets of Paris. The poor child had not enough to change a gold piece you gave her, and when she mentioned that her mother was very sick at home, you told her to keep the money till she had enough to change it. The little apple merchant now stands before you. I have married a rich man, and must beg of you to accept the hat as a testimony of my gratitude for the gift which saved my poor mother from much suffering."

ELEPHANTIASIS.—Just one month ago yesterday a pitiable object was admitted into Bellevue Hospital. His whole body was enlarged to an unnatural extent. He measured five feet six inches round the waist, and his legs were the size of larger barrel. His arms and his face were like puff-balls. His body became rough and scaly. The skin was thick, unctious and insensible. The man was suffering from elephantiasis. His name was Albert Morrow. He lived at 7 Weehawken street. Notwithstanding his fearful condition, he was cheerful and at times even merry. He was known among the patients as the Fat Man of Bellevue Hospital. The doctors could do but little for him. His body continued to increase in size, and his sufferings ended yesterday morning when he died.—N. Y. Sun.

SIX FORTY-FOUR.—We notice in a table published in a number of papers of the State that the population of this town, Statesville, is credited with the number of 644 inhabitants. Not having had the pleasure of an interview with the last census-taker, we doubt the correctness of the number. Our idea is that Statesville will rank nearer the 'captain's place'—than 24. From good authority, we learn that the population runs over 900, without doubt.

Vance to resign the seat; it may proceed if it will to duplicate that error by seating Abbott; but fifty Senates could not make this other than the outrage which all who do not profit by it must know it to be."

Ten gallons of kerosene, three pounds of potash, one ounce of strychnine, mixed with soft water." It was according to this cheerful, not to say convivial formula, that a quantity of "whisky" seized last week in Newton, Mass., was compounded, the recipe having also been found in the possession of the unfortunate dealer. If you want "gin," add quantum sufficit of oil juniper! The mystery is that men who drink this diabolical fluid do not drop down stone dead at once.—So says the New York Tribune.

The New York Tribune says, the Senate can declare, if it so chooses, that the Grand Duke Alexis is the senator-elect from North Carolina, with as much propriety and regard for law as it can give the seat to Abbott. The seating of Ames, as the senator from Mississippi, warrants one to believe that the senate is capable of committing any outrage. The time has been when the head of the King of England, with his crown, rolled from the block for refusing to issue writs of election. But that was many years ago, and under a monarchical form of government. In a modern Republic three hundred tyrants can, with impunity, not only usurp the powers of the people, but seize their property, abridge their liberties and take their lives under the pretence of guaranteeing a Republican form of government to the States. Thus we go.—Wilmington Journal of the 9th inst.

A Bomb Shell.
Senator Sumner threw a bomb-shell into the Administration camp on the 11th inst, by calling for a committee to investigate the charge of the sale of arms to the French Government during the late Franco-German war. It is said that there is no doubt of our Government having sold arms to France, and only that but that hardly half the money these arms sold for has been paid in to the Treasury.

The New York Tribune declares that our Government has been guilty, in this matter, of precisely the same thing we are demanding pay for from the English Government.

TURPENTINE IN HEADACHE.—Dr. Warburton Begbie, (Edinburgh Medical Journal), advocates the use of turpentine in the severe headache to which nervous and hysterical women are subject.
"There is, moreover," he says, "another class of sufferers from headache, and this is composed of both sexes who may be relieved by turpentine. I refer to the frontal headache, which is most apt to occur after prolonged mental effort, but may likewise be induced by unduly sustained physical exertion—what may be styled the headache of a fatigued brain. A cup of very strong tea often relieves this form of headache, but this remedy with not a few, may produce general restlessness and—worst of all—banish sleep. Turpentine, in doses of twenty or thirty minims, given at intervals of an hour or two, will not only remove the headache, but produce in a wonderful manner that soothing influence to which reference has already been made."

JUDGE TOURGEE'S CHARGE AT GRAHAM.

Reported for the Recorder.

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

The position which you now occupy is the most solemn and responsible one which a citizen can be called upon to hold in relation to himself and his fellows. In and through your action alone can the criminal law of the State be executed. By fulfilling the requirements of your oath criminals are brought to justice and the rights and persons of your fellow citizens and yourselves protected from rapacity and violence. By violating that oath you prevent effectually the punishment of crime, and expose your fellows and yourselves to every possible phase of wickedness. Thoroughness, efficiency and diligence in the highest degree with absolute freedom from prejudice, fear, favor and affection, reward or the hope of reward, are the prime requisites of the Grand Juror.

The first requirement of your oath is that of diligence—you shall diligently enquire and true presentment make of all such matters and things as may be given you in charge. And the court gives it you in charge that you are to make this diligent enquiry in regard to all crimes which may have been committed in the county of Alamance with one or two trivial exceptions of crimes which do not fall within the jurisdiction of this court. This diligent enquiry must be of an active nature. It is not enough that you should investigate such crimes as may be presented to you for consideration but you are to seek out all crimes which have been committed and make due presentment thereof. Your first means of information lies within your own body. It is the duty of every Grand Juror to give information with regard to all crimes coming to his knowledge either by observation or report. This duty is one not unfrequently neglected by Grand Jurors, especially in the county of Alamance. Upon at least three of the Grand Juries empanelled in this county during the past three years the facts developed upon preliminary examinations justify me in saying there have been jurors cognizant of the most serious offences and in one case of the highest crime who came before the court and answered upon their solemn oaths that they had presented all crimes coming to their knowledge. It is your duty to disclose all knowledge that you may have of crime in order that your fellows may find presentments thereon, and this disclosure should be made at an early period in the term.

I do not propose at this time to give you a detailed rehearsal of the various offences of the criminal category, but simply to call your attention to some particular crimes which demand your most serious consideration, first: the crime of murder, I need not define it to you. You are all aware of its nature and of that peculiar element of deliberation—malice premeditated in the words of the law—whereby it is distinguished from its kindred offence manslaughter. It is unnecessary to inform you that three, probably four crimes of this character have been committed in the county which have been entirely unnoticed or but partially investigated by our Grand Juries. One of these peculiarly noted for deliberation, atrocity and a high handed mockery of law was committed in the very confines of the Temples of Justice, upon the Court House square. At this tragic scene were present nearly a hundred of the citizens of Alamance. It is useless to say to you gentlemen that every one present—everyone accompanying that murderous band is equally guilty of the crime they wrought with him who slipped the fatal noose over the neck of Wyatt Outlaw. But this crime touches not only those who were present at its consummation, but reaches also to those men who assembled in darkness and secrecy deliberately planned its execution and to those who instigated and devised this crime; every person at that meeting who voted for this assassination or who by his silence and failure to reveal and defeat this conspiracy is guilty as an accessory to this murder. And even if it shall appear to you that it was by them intended only to make an unlawful assault upon their unfortunate victim; they are still as conspirators accessory to his murder. So in all crimes thus consociated, if committed, the originators become guilty as accessories before the fact. If not committed or attempted they are guilty as conspirators. For months and years, these crimes have been hidden from the eyes of justice—Time—the great avenger—and that conscience which doth make cowards of us all—have corroded the links of links of secrecy and loosed the bands of perjury by which they have been protected and becomes now your duty to scrutinize this record of crime and unveil the horrors which have heretofore been concealed that the guilty may be punished.

With regard to other and lesser offences perpetrated by that organization which engendered those to which your attention has been directed. I am informed that the Legislature recently in session has extended to the perpetrators such protection and security as their wisdom could devise—these perpetrators of a system of crimes unheard of and unparalleled in a Christian and civilized community have been—as I am informed—screened by legislative action. I have not yet seen the act and will give you at some future time such instructions as from the perusal of the act, the Court may deem necessary.

The vagrant act is being enforced in town to some extent. A negro boy was taken up one day this week as a vagrant and sentenced to the chain gang for thirty days.

NEWBERN.
We take from the Commerce:
The truck farmers and market gardeners are at work around Newbern.
A mess of stale oysters like to have been the death of a Newbernian.
A negro has discovered an oil well just west of Newbern. He dipped out two barrels and took to the city and it resembled crude petroleum.

LOVE OF GAIN.—I behold men of generous impulses starting in life on certain courses; and I know what the end will be. I see men sacrificing themselves for gain. I see men giving their time for mere money. They do not care for the welfare of the community. They have no sympathy for the unfortunate classes.—And yet they are men who, before they were attacked by the delirium of avarice, had generous and noble natures. I know what will become of them. They grow up more and more avaricious and less and less manly. As their riches increase, their manhood dies out. And I see them forsaking one another, their old companions who are not profitable. I see that, as they pile up treasures their generosity diminishes. There is a fever of gain which a man who is inspired to watch can discern. And I see them at last lying back in their powdering moments, and turning over and over their money. Night and day they live for money. And every other thing is destroyed in them except the love of gain. They are utterly carried away by avarice. If I had told them when they began that they were coming to this, they would have said: "Is thy servant a dog?" And yet those very steps which they were then taking were steps by which they would inevitably become misers.—Beecher.

Naomi, the daughter of Enoch, was 580 years old when she married. There's hope for some of you young ladies, after all.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

MUSIC IN THE AIR.

A Music man in Raleigh, N.C. has a music store in Raleigh. The other day he and his big trunk went together to Goldsboro to "attend to a little business," and they haven't been heard of since. They are traveling yet, we guess. Such a sale of pianos, and box-organs and accordions and fiddles and all kinds of sheet-music as they'll have at auction was never heard of before. Tim Lee, the Sheriff, is now said to be teaching the "music in the air." But it's mighty dry music in this town. You see Lilge used to run up this way and "play" for us. And he wore such lovely side-whiskers and had such a sweet and benign smile, that a friend loaned him a hundred and fifty dollars just a few days before he and his big trunk departed. Appropos, we hear of a most excellent lady, his betrothed, and his own countrywoman, whom he left behind with a debt of six-hundred and fifty dollars, money of her own hard and honest savings that she had lent the ambling Professor. Well, we have writ him down, and if he ever gets great in this new role, we'll charge him for this notice.

New Hope.

The late freshets down in this section have washed up the wheat and oats and otherwise damaged the land. Every body is out of rough food for stock. Very little ploughing been done. Joseph Turner, an old tailor, from Baltimore, living in this section, died rather suddenly a short while since. There was a suspicion at one time of foul play, but after an investigation there was nothing found to sustain it. He was found dead in his house, and being a dear lover of mean liquor, we think it likely John Harleymon slayed him.

ISRAELITES.—The world may say what it pleases about the Israelites or "Jews," but if any man will show us a town in the U. States without a Jew we'll show you a dead "city," or a town of very little consequence. The Jews are enterprising.

Sale of Lohel.

This beautiful residence near Hillsboro—once used for a female school—was sold the other day at auction and brought one thousand and fifty dollars. There were two hundred and five acres attached. The place was bought by Mr. David Parks, of this town.

Legions at Graham Court.
John H. Dillard, Rufus J. Meaden, Gov. Graham, Thomas Webb, John A. Gilmer, John W. Graham, & P. Hill, Capt. James Graham, Mr. Parker S. H. Webb, Jacob Long, Zach Dickie, Jas. E. Boyd, Levi Scott, Junius Seales, Solicitor Bulla, Mr. Ball, Mr. May, John Graham.

Graham Court.

At Graham Court they sell spiced oysters in tin plates at twenty five cents a plate and a little piece of five-days old cornbread thrown in. There are also jumping matches in which young men pull off their coats and exercise in the open air, jumping as far as they can with every sinew in their toes extended.

De Jur.

There was only one negro on the grand jury and only one on the petit jury in the late court in Alamance. These two are considered the intelligence of the negro population in Alamance and they both are in very bad health.

Two Alamance Women Divorced.
Mr. Sutton of Alamance has lived with Mary Hughes of same county for over one year and the Court granted Mrs. Sutton a divorce. Mrs. S. is a small head and big boned looking woman and she smiled a smile when the Court decided. Also Margaret C. Cable was divorced from Jeremiah Cable, and Sarah Bass, a yellow female witness, swore a child proof blank to Jeremiah Cable. The white women all retired smiling.

Confessed.

Henry Isely "fessed up" as a KuKlux before Tourage at Court. Said he hadn't told a "dam thing to the Conservatives." Henry has been a hot Conservative himself.

Death of an old Alamance.
Gen. Joe Holt aged about sixty five died in Salisbury the other day. He lived in Alamance till since the surrender. He moved from Thomasville last Tuesday and died on Friday. Two of his grandchildren are now at the Klapp Hotel in Graham.

The Grand Jury at Graham.

The Grand Jury of this Court are as follows:
R. A. Noel, Simon Allen, Wm. Moore, Job. Allen, Aleck May, C. C. Curtis (Foreman), Turner Foust, (negro) John Whitwell, Wm. Moser, Jos. Wright, Jacob Summers, Thomas B. Faucett, G. W. Sikks, Philip Waycock, J. M. Euliss, Henry Albright, Henderson Pegram, A. M. Smith, Daniel May.

A Female Fire Doctor.

Mrs. Waywalt, a dutch woman, on Reedy Fork in Alamance county, professes to cure any burn without leaving a scar by simply blowing on it. The people go to her for miles around. A gentleman took his little child to her, that had fallen in the fire, a few days since, and his face was badly burnt. She blew on it and healed it up. This is a fact.

Tobacco.
There was a large supply of the weed in market yesterday, mostly of an inferior grade, and we learn that the prices for all grades were good and highly satisfactory. We noticed our friend "Sandy" of Caswell, among the patrons of the market, carrying a "horn" he couldn't blow.

YANCEYVILLE.

One of the finest locations for Tobacco Factories and Warehouses in the United States is the town of Yanceyville, N. C. And if they only had a branch Rail Road to Pelham, or Danville, or Milton, (connected with a steamer on Dan River,) Yanceyville would be a flourishing town and present a Tobacco market that would vie with the first markets of the world. As it is, the Tobacco market that is attracting the attention of the outside world. They have lately established two or three large Warehouses in that town, one by Col. Joseph C. Pinnix, Lt. "Tuck" Norfleet and Capt. Jordan (late of Gates),—the two latter fought through the war like heroes, and Capt. Jordan gave an arm to the "lost cause." There is another run by Capt. Alfred A. Mitchell & Son, and we think there is the third house, but by whom we know not. We hear that the warehouses are all doing well, especially that of Pinnix, Norfleet & Jordan, an adv. of which appears in this day's paper. We have heard several planters expressing the highest satisfaction at the prices this house sold their Tobacco, and then they are all such clever, fair-dealing men. We know Col. Pinnix and Lieut. Norfleet personally, and we can tell the planters that they are the right men in the right place, and will leave no stone unturned to promote the interest of the planter—with Capt. Jordan we have but a slight acquaintance—but the fact that he lost an arm in the war, should endear him to every Southern man's heart, worth calling a MAN.

To give the planter some idea of the prices in Yanceyville, a friend has furnished us with the following sales recently made by the "Sky-Light Warehouse," and when we consider that nearly all the Tobacco thrown into market now is of the meanest sort, the price challenge rivalry: 1 lot for R. Williamson, for $201.00 per 1000 1 lot for Gen. Graves, for $142.00 " do 1 lot for Elijah Slade, col'd 152.00 " do 1 lot for Williamson & B., 120.00 " do 1 lot for " do 51.00 " do 1 lot for James Gunn 60.00 " do 1 lot for H. Wheeler 50.00 " do 1 lot for Benj. Willis, 30.00 " do 1 lot for " do 30.00 " do 1 lot for " do 16.50 " do Besides hundreds of parcels at from $5 to $30 per hundred. (See advertisement.)

It is rumored that Gov. Caldwell has appointed some one in the Ex. office to do the Public printing. How is this—we thought the Legislature had elected that anti-whisky drinking and sober-headed gentleman, Theodore Ramsey, Esq., to do the public printing—does he decline the job? If so take it some of the Job-printing offices in Raleigh—in the under-working "ring"—and the State can get the work done for almost nothing at all. The Ex. man will be apt to charge something for his labor if he's outside of the "ring"—even if he steals his paper.

A Present.

Wegot a letter from Richmond today and when we opened it, out fell a beautiful scarf. Spence sent it: "If ever I cease to love" that Firm of E. B. SPENCE & SON at Thirteen Hundred Main.

Speaking at Graham.

Senator Robbins spoke at Graham Court. Also Mr. Turner.

An Oversight.

In the last Plant published at Durham's, a Highway Robbery is published as local matter, and no credit being given, the piece reads as if it happened in Orange county. Whereas it was near Wilmington. Brother Green, we know, didn't notice it.

DIED.
On Wednesday evening the 14th inst., at Cedar Grove, the residence of her father, after a short and painful illness, Miss MARY W. ALLISON, in the 25th year of her age.

Her death was sudden and unexpected. She was suffering as was supposed from a cold or facial neuralgia, but as she was subject to such attacks nothing serious was apprehended by her friends. She was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church at Eno. As a daughter she was dutiful; as a sister kind and affectionate; as a companion sociable, kind-hearted and agreeable in her manners. It is a source of great consolation to her relatives and friends that in the hour of dissolution "all was well," and that the faith she professed enabled her, as she was entering the cold waters of the dark river of death, to say to those kind friends who stood around her death-bed and ministered, "I am going home!" In her sore bereavement may the father, sister and brothers be enabled to say in a truly christian spirit, "Thy will be done."

COD LIVER OIL,
The Best, Purest and most acceptable to the

THIS COD LIVER OIL we import direct, and claim that it is superior to any other in this Market, because it is selected by our own Agent at the Fisheries, and made only
FROM HEALTHY AND FRESH LIVERS.
It has never been filtered or expressed, and thus deprived of its most valuable therapeutic property, nor exposed to atmospheric changes, which render other Oils rancid and unsalable. It has never been mixed or adulterated with inferior and cheaper Oils to reduce the cost at a sacrifice of its quality nor handled by any other parties than the Fisheries and ourselves.

We have the testimony of Physicians who prescribe it, and of patients who have taken it, that it is more agreeable to the stomach and more easily assimilated than any other Oil.
We guarantee it to be entirely pure and fresh, free from rancidity, and fully possessing all of

PICOT'S

VIRGINIA WORM KILLER.

The Best, Safest and most Pleasant Remedy for WORMS ever discovered.
Tried by Thousands and approved by all.
CHILDREN CRY FOR IT!

MOST of diseases from which children suffer are occasioned by the presence of Worms in the body; and if they are neglected they produce great derangement of the system and give rise to many alarming affections.

This valuable and well known preparation is recommended with the greatest confidence; past experience and test of years having proved it to be one of the best and most reliable Vermifuges in use. It has a great advantage over most articles of the kind, as it is readily taken by children, being mild & pleasant to the taste, and safe, prompt and certain in its effects. The genuine article is prepared only by

BERRIAN & McPHAIL, Distillers, corner Main and 1st streets, Richmond, Va.

Being familiar with Picot's Virginia Worm Killer, and the mode of preparing it, we can confidently recommend it as a pleasant, safe and reliable Vermifuge for children troubled with Worms.

Dear Sir, It gives me much pleasure to say my testimony in behalf of your most excellent Vermifuge, known as the Virginia Worm Killer, which I have extensively used in a large practice, and with the most gratifying results. Knowing its composition, I can recommend it as a safe and reliable Vermifuge, and, in my opinion, far preferable to any now extant, and less likely to be attended with undesirable results. Administered according to directions, it may be safely given to children of all ages, and should be an indispensable medicine in every household. Yours, &c., A. A. EATON, M. D.

From Parents who have used it for years:
We have used Picot's Virginia Worm Killer for a long time in our families, and have never known it to fail.
